Also, I ended up selecting a different beer than I expected (which has happened already twice). This week's selection is Mickey's Lager from Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It has a light Grolsch/bitter taste to it, sort of strong but the flavour goes away near instantly (it's there, then it's not!), and the aroma is very slightly like Grolsch/Heineken, well that may be because it's in a green bottle but who knows. My room mate Jim was very surprised as it displayed the date it was conceived, right on the bottle, December 16, 2009, it really is rare to see that now days. Two things I loved about it. ...actually make that three: 1) The bottle: It has a pseudo stubby style meets preservative jar look to it, this is great as it is less likely to be broken than a regular long neck bottle. 2) This could have been in #1, the cap, the cap is a twist off that also easily goes right back on easily. Say if you are having a beer, but half way through you aren't feeling well but don't want the beer to go to waste, just put the cap back on and enjoy it later! 3) Cap again, each and every cap has a puzzle for you to guess, some easy, some very difficult, on this one it's "Shake that Ass", great idea by the brewery to do something like that! You can also find the answers on their website! (Old ones here) It's 355ml, 5.5% alcohol/volume, I was surprised it was that high, with it being an American imported beer, I expected 4.8-5.0%. Will I buy it, as I didn't buy this? Prooobably not, but for the novelty factor, it's very possible I may! (Edit from 2019: I never purchased this since the review) Difficulty Level: 8 - on 1-10 scale This Mickey's cap puzzle has three symbols: 1) Letter P 2) Ink Quill Symbol (Old-School) 3) 2 Rings (with stones) ANSWER: Pinkie Rings! (was posted originally as unsolved - but once our master solver Blak200f saw it - 2 minutes and he nailed it. As usual. You all should strive to be more like him. Deciphered: P + Ink Bottle thus 'pinkie - 2 rings thus 'rings' Answer: Hot dog, they won. Show Answer Hide Answer Page 2 Answer: When it's springtime in the Rockies. Help Center I don't drink much (though I do like going places and ordering fancy drinks) so I never knew that inside of every Mickey's bottle cap is a little brain teaser. I spent a lot of time hanging out with some Mickey's drinkers this past week and got to see a lot of these. They would be a great drink to have at a party or BBQ where people might not know each other that well because trying to decipher the images is a great icebreaker. I kept encouraging everyone around me to have another Mickey's so I could have their cap. Can you make out the idioms on each one? Answers (or so we think) below. (Answers from top to bottom: stop the hate, listen up, she spins me around, two thumbs up, big balla, sleep on it, happily single) Last modified: January 10, 2019 Difficulty Level: 5 - on 1-10 scale This Mickey's cap puzzle has four symbols: 1) Phone receiver with noise waves 2) Letter E 3) Flower 4) Human Ear ANSWER: Cauliflower Ear DECIPHERED: phone with sound waves + E + flower thus - cauliflower + ear thus "Cauliflower Ear" Thanks to Jeff for sending this cap photo! FYI: Cauliflower ear (also hematoma auris, perichondrial hematoma, and Traumatic auricular hematoma[1]) is a condition most common among boxers, amateur wrestlers, rugby players, and mixed martial artists. If the external portion of the ear suffers a blow, a blood clot or other fluid may collect under the perichondrium. This separates the cartilage from the overlying perichondrium that is its source of nutrients, causing the cartilage to die. This leads to a formation of fibrous tissue in the overlying skin. When this happens, the outer ear becomes permanently swollen and deformed, resembling a cauliflower - Wikipedia
